Date: 05th November, 2024

Subject: Discussion on “Compensatory Discrimination in India Sixty Years after Independence: A Vehicle of Progress or a Tool of Partisan Politics”

The Constitutional and Administrative Law Society (CALs) of Campus Law Centre invites students and teachers to an engaging discussion on the topic, “Compensatory Discrimination in India Sixty Years after Independence: A Vehicle of Progress or a Tool of Partisan Politics.” by Kathrik Nagarajan

Event Details:

Date: 08th November, 2024

Time: 12 p.m.

Venue: Seminar Hall

This discussion will explore the role and impact of compensatory discrimination policies in India, critically examining whether these measures serve as catalysts for social progress or as instruments shaped by political interests. It is an opportunity for students to engage with complex questions about equality, representation, and the challenges of implementing affirmative policies in a democratic society.

We look forward to a thoughtful and spirited discussion. Join us for this intriguing and fruitful session.
